ContractWorks Contract Management Software Releases Electronic Signature

ContractWorks Contract Management Software now offers built-in electronic signature with every account, eliminating the need for external digital signature products and enabling quick online contract signing.

Santa Barbara, California (PRWEB) March 28, 2017 -- ContractWorks, the most user-friendly, secure, and affordable contract management software now comes standard with built-in electronic signature. Users can now set up, request, and automatically file signature documents directly from their contract management system - no cumbersome API to slow down the signing process.

Built to comply with the ESIGN Act and individual state regulations, ContractWorks Electronic Signature is intuitive to use, simple in it's design, and can be executed in seconds, and without ever leaving the contract management system.

"ContractWorks is already a popular solution for companies looking for an affordable way to simplify their contract management processes. Adding Electronic Signature makes it even more compelling, now a signed contract can flow seamlessly into it's final resting place, with controlled access for appropriate parties, and with alerts set for its future renewal." - Will Reynolds, CEO of ContractWorks

This addition to ContractWorks Contract Management Software's standard feature set removes the need for businesses to pay for additional online document signing services, and consolidates their documents into one secure contract management system - no more time wasted on faxing, scanning, downloading, or lost contracts.

ContractWorks with built-in electronic signature gives organizations everything needed to effectively sign, store, track, and report on their contracts and other corporate documentation, for a low, flat-rate.
