

Attention Startups! How to Raise Capital Among Life Science Investors

SecureDocs and Life Science Nation Host Webinar: Early-Stage Fundraising for Life Science Startups on October 15th

Santa Barbara, CA (PRWEB) September 17, 2015 -- While the current IPO environment has created a much more positive outlook for life science and drawn significant capital from retail investors, there remains a very high level of competition from entrepreneurs for those dollars in the early stage. How can these startups make themselves stand out and move beyond retail investors to secure funds?

Secure Docs, a secure virtual data room for storing and sharing sensitive business documents and Life Science Nation, the premiere platform for connecting life science companies to products, services, and capital have teamed up to host a webinar that will help answer this question and offer best practices for raising capital among domestic and international investors in the life science arena.

What: The Early-Stage Fundraising for Life Science webinar will cover:

- Identifying investors in the life science space
- Understanding the investor types and new players
- Determine fit with a potential investor
- Marketing your opportunity effectively
- What it takes to close a deal

When: Thursday, October 15, 2015 10:00 - 11:00 AM PST
